We are excited to present an Africa series of talks to connect the community of people studying Africa or working in Africa -- including students, faculty, staff, and the wider Tucson community. We believe that with the exchange of information and building a diverse community of scholars focused on topics related to Africa, we can leverage our unique experiences to learn from each other and productively engage with topics about Africa.

January 31

DIANA GITHU
School of Natural Resources and the Environment

Range Reseeding and Pastoralists Resilience to Climate Variability

February 21

KATHERINE SNYDER
School of Geography and Development

“Modern” Farming and the Transformation of Livelihoods in Rural Tanzania

March 20

ABBASS BRAHAM
School of Middle Eastern and North African Studies

Colonizing Shari’a: Islam, Law, and the Secular in the Colonial Encounter in Mauritania (1900-1934)

April 24

ANNA JOSEPHSON
Department of Agriculture and Resource Economics

Women’s Welfare and Experienced Fertility: Understanding the Role of Failed Pregnancy, Abortion, and Stillbirth

For more information CONTACT: Dr. Praise Zenenga (zen08@email.arizona.edu) or Marcela Thompson (marcelathompson@email.arizona.edu)